

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a system and method for distributing software.

In one arrangement, the method comprises the steps of querying a user as to the needs of the user, receiving user responses to the query, characterizing the use of the user
5 based upon the user responses, and suggesting software programs that may be beneficial to the user based upon the characterization of the use.

0954796.091001
FOOTNOTES